Who we are and what we do

[REDACTED]

Our business

We will continue to pursue profit for purpose, balancing commercial interests with the goals of our charter, managing the dynamics between profit, and societal and environmental impact, to promote trust in a digital and sustainable world

Our policies and procedures

Our Code of Business Ethics and our Group Sustainability Code both confirm BSI's commitment to conducting itself fairly, honestly, and lawfully and affirm our zero tolerance approach to modern slavery. When procuring goods and services, BSI places a high priority on environmental, health & safety information, equality, diversity & inclusion, with a particular focus on human rights

Our approach to modern slavery risks in our supply chain

As a professional services organisation, we obtain our products from a variety of suppliers who offer a wide range of goods and services, including technological hardware and software, consulting

Modern slavery training and awareness

We believe the risk of slavery within our own business is low due to the nature of services BSI offers. We are not complacent, however. During FY2022 we took the following actions to prevent slavery in our own business:

1. included modern slavery awareness training as part of the Health, Safety, Environment and Sustainability e-learning course issued to all employees and contingent workers annually;
2. actively continued to promote our Code of Business Ethics to employees, through our onboarding process and internal communications and initiatives;
3. continued our global "Speak Up" internal awareness campaign to promote reporting of any concerns;

4. using the "BSI Connect Screen" a data-driven tool created by our Consulting Services division that provides a risk rating (from low to high) across many aspects of modern slavery for the nation in our supply chain. Using information from industry-recognized data sets, it looks at forced labour, child labour, human trafficking, and forced marriage. Based on the given risk levels, this tool has helped us identify countries and suppliers for assessment and provide a

Looking to the future

Group Procurement has developed a road map to further enhance the existing controls in place which address the role of modern slavery within our operations and our supply chain. An initial

Closing commitment statement

At BSI, we firmly denounce modern slavery and are dedicated to its eradication. We pledge to take
